

Mrs. Pankhurst, Suffragette Leader, Who May Become Martyr to Cause

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)
LONDON, May 31.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, released yesterday from Holloway Jail, is suffering from acute indigestion, resulting from an attempt to swallow some truth about her long hunger strike. She is in a most enfeebled condition and her suffragette followers are alarmed for her life.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(Special to The Advertiser)—The possibility that President Wilson may go to the Capitol and personally confer with members of the judiciary committee, giving them whatever information he may have with reference to an "insidious" lobby at work at the Capitol to bring about a change of heart in congress in the tariff program, stirred official Washington today.

It is customary to exempt the President of the United States from appearing before investigating committees, but if Mr. Wilson wanted an opportunity to be heard, he would be a conspicuous figure. Members of the senate feel that the President will show that he does not care very much for precedents, and that he likes to deal directly with congress, and it is very likely that the suggestion will be made to him that he have a talk with the judiciary committee about the lobby.

At the interview with the newspaper men, in which the flouting attack on the lobby was made, the President said that he had not been bothered by any lobbyists himself, but it may be that he has gathered considerable information from senators who have called on him.

NORFOLK, Virginia, May 31.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Incomplete reports today from sections of the Virginia coast devastated by a wind and rain storm last night, indicate that from eight to ten lives were lost, although only two are positively known to have perished. The occupants of a rowboat, which was swamped at Pinner Point, their bodies were not recovered.

A score or more fishing boats were cut when the storm broke and several of these are missing. A dozen skiffs and a number of launches at Pinner Point were dashed against the shore and badly damaged. The government's wireless station, which was swamped at Pinner Point, the storm took on the proportions of a tornado and much damage was done.

MARQUETTE, Michigan, May 31.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Complete exoneration for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt from charges of drunkenness, made against him by an editorial by George Newitt, editor of the Ishpeming Iron Ore, came here this afternoon when Newitt, after Roosevelt's case rested took the witness stand and made a complete surrender. Colonel Roosevelt was given damages in the sum of six cents.

Newitt read a long statement in defending his article in charging Roosevelt with drunkenness, insisting that he had acted with no malice, but simply reported in print allegations he had heard by word of mouth and without any actual knowledge of their truth. His statement came at once after the reading of a state of depositions from prominent persons, all of whom swore they had known Roosevelt intimately for years and that he was a model of sobriety.

Newitt's statement contained a full and free retraction of charges of drunkenness made and absolute apology to the former President.

Nominal Damages
Colonel Roosevelt immediately addressed the court:
"In view of the statement by the defense," he said, "I ask the court to instruct the jury that I desire only nominal damages. I did not go into this suit for money or for any vindictive purpose."

"I made my reputation, as this court has said, on issues, because I wished for once and all during my lifetime to thoroughly and comprehensively deal with slanders. Never again will it be possible for any man, in good faith, to report these charges. I have achieved my purpose and am contented."

After Newitt and his attorneys had held a whispered conversation, all the lawyers joined in a request for the court to order a fifteen minute recess, to agree on the amount of damages. The court then instructed the jury, in accordance with the plaintiff's request, and the jury returned a verdict awarding the Colonel six cents damages which is the amount for nominal damages allowed by the law in Michigan.

FATHER AND MOTHER FIGHT DUEL—THREE DEAD AS A RESULT

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)
GRIFFIN, Colorado, June 2.—(Associated Press Cable)—Robert Stanley, a rancher, his wife and their baby daughter are dead here today as the result of a duel fought between the man and the woman with revolvers over the possession of the baby. The couple had quarreled and the woman picked up the baby and announced that she was leaving home, never to return. The man drew a revolver and threatened to kill both her and the little girl unless she agreed to remain with him. The woman also drew a revolver and began firing. The man was mortally wounded, but continued to shoot until the woman and baby were each bullet-riddled.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Honolulu women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of Dropsy or Bright's Disease. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause.

Can Honolulu sufferers desire stronger proof than this woman's word?
Mrs. James Somers, 3306 N. Tenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I wish I could induce every kidney sufferer to give Doan's Backache Kidney Pills a trial. Kidney complaint in my case came on gradually and I neglected to attend to it until my condition was serious. Often I had to leave my house, and sound sleep was impossible, owing to backache. My body became lame and stiff and I had such terrible dizzy spells and headaches that it seemed as if my head were splitting. My sight was affected and sharp twinges extended from my shoulders into my arms and loins, making me as weak as a child. When almost about to give up I learned of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills and began their use. They helped me although other preparations had failed and I continued taking them until I was well. My cure has been permanent."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50) or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

Japan Makes No Reply to Offer of Renewal of Arbitration Treaty

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(Special to The Advertiser)—The arbitration treaty with Japan expires by limitation on August 24.

President Wilson has announced his willingness to renew it, but Japan has given no intimation of its purposes in the matter.

The treaty with Mexico, expiring on June 27, will involve the important question of recognition of the Huerta government, which thus far has been withheld. No hint has been given that the government will be recognized and in announcing recently the names of nations with which this government was willing to renew arbitration treaties, President Wilson omitted Mexico.

SUGAR AND WOOL FIGHT TO BE IN CAUCUS

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(Special to The Advertiser)—It was made evident today that the fight among the Democrats on the wool and sugar schedules of the bill would be conducted in caucus, and that this would leave only Senators Ransdell and Thornton of Louisiana to vote against the bill because of their opposition to the sugar schedule and Senator Walsh to oppose it because of free raw wool.

The administration leaders were never more positive than today that the bill would come from the finance committee and through the fire of the party caucuses with free raw wool and sugar in three years, remaining unchanged.

NEWLANDS PROPHECIED STRONG OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senator Newlands of Nevada, leader of the beet sugar senators, today declared to the senate that fourteen Democratic senators would fight for a duty on wool and sugar.

President Wilson has insisted that the Underwood bill must go through the senate in the form it passed the house.

The reply of Senator Newlands today, therefore, is regarded as notice of the rebellion of the beet sugar senators against the President's program. It marks the beginning of a bitter fight by the senators from the West on the sugar schedule.

This was the rock on which the senate broke with President Cleveland in the debate over the Wilson Tariff Bill in 1904. The issue is joined between the Western senators and the President.

President Wilson sent to the Capitol today Joseph P. Tumulty, his secretary, to report on the possibility of holding in line the slim Democratic majority.

After several days of sharp debate the Democratic majority of six sent the Underwood Bill to the finance committee without instructions as to hearings. The vote was 41 to 35 against hearings.

Object to Sectional Features.
Senator Newlands said the Western States which had elected fourteen Democratic senators wanted their products placed on the same basis under the tariff as those of the East and Middle West. The average reduction in the Underwood Bill from 40 per cent in the present law to 25 per cent was fair, he said, but it was not fair to make a sectional bill, which gave the East and Middle West the benefits of protection and put Western wool and sugar on the free list.

Other senators who are reported to be standing with Mr. Newlands for amendments to the Underwood Bill despite the ultimatum of the President are Senators Walsh, of Montana; Pittman, of Nevada, and Smith, of Arizona. If these four senators join with the two Louisiana senators and vote against the Underwood Bill it will be defeated.

Asked if he would remain outside of the Democratic caucus, Senator Newlands declined to make any prediction as to his future course. In a formal statement he had this to say:

"There are three factors in framing a tariff bill—the house, the President and the senate. Thus far, the house and the President alone have acted. The President and the house doubtless will insist to the senate in the same spirit of fairness. They would expect the senate to do the same. The result would be the framing of a tariff that would involve no sectional or regional injustice, but would place the products of the West upon the same basis as those of the East and Middle West."

Favors Material Reductions.
Senator Newlands discussed the question of the equitable adjustment of the tariff duties as between the East and West. He declared himself in favor of material reductions in the tariff, as embodied in the House Bill. He said he did not think the reduction from an average of forty per cent in the Payne law to twenty-five per cent in the Underwood Bill was excessive. He preferred, however, that such reductions should be extended over a period of three years, to give the industries to be affected time to readjust themselves to the lower duties without deranging their business.

He insisted that the States west of the Mississippi River had declared themselves in favor of material reductions and had elected fourteen Democratic senators, where, a few years ago, they had only one. He said they did not vote for a reduction which would keep the East and Middle West on the extreme West to a free trade basis, while at the same time compelling them to buy in a protected market.

Wants Duty on Sugar.
Regarding free sugar, he said the Underwood Bill provided for a reduction of duty to one cent a pound and free sugar in three years. What the Western States sought to accomplish was that at the end of three years, in stead of sugar going on the free list, it should be put at the same average duty as was now fixed by the Underwood Tariff Bill upon Western and Middle Western products—namely, twenty-five per cent. This would mean a tariff duty of only one cent a pound where previously a duty of from one and one-half to two cents a pound had existed.

He said this was not merely a domestic question, but one in which our insular possessions were involved. He said Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands had been taken within the protection of our tariff walls and production had been largely stimulated.

BRESLAU, Germany, June 1.—Breslau "the beautiful," capital of Silesia, cradle of Germany's rise against Napoleon one hundred years ago, is now the center of the great celebration being held through the Fatherland, honoring the "Hero of 1814."

In all the churches today, the proclamation of King Frederick William the Second, which issued from his headquarters here when the little Corsican was still the master of Europe, calling upon all true Germans to rise and "arm, ye braves," was recited in stirring sermons.

Thousands from all parts of the country attended the inauguration of the great festival hall which will remain for years to come a monument to sacrifices made by men, women and children during the bitter struggle which was destined to endure until Napoleon was overthrown on the blood-stained fields of Waterloo.
